

UNITY; JOIN OR DIE

“They seem to think that if you don’t give them what they want, you’re not for unity. That’s not unity, that’s my way or the highway.” Who better to articulate yet another two-faced example of leftist double speak than ole’ Eraserhead himself, California Congressman Adam Schiff. Schiff has taken to heart his own self ordination as Grand Inquisitor of the anti-Trump witch hunt by promoting unity through a relentless effort over the last 4 years to eradicate the presidency of Donald J. Trump, along with any and all of his supporters. Under the protection of perhaps the most moronic district of voters in the nation (with maybe the exception of Nancy Pelosi’s rainbow coalition of homosexuals, drug addicts and indigenous illegals) Schiff has shamelessly spewed deceit, lies and accusations designed to not only destroy President Trump, but to ostracize and isolate anyone who dares hold an opinion in opposition to the decreed narrative that America is only America when it espouses communistic doctrine and policies. All in the name of unity.

If one thing can be said of leftist narratives and the smear campaigns that advance them, all you have to do to truly understand their intent and motivation is to listen to their words and then simply apply them in opposite context. If they allege corruption, then know they are shielding their own corruption. If they decry immorality, then know they are the ones practicing sin. If they boast of integrity, know such an ideal is measured by one’s ability to get away with a lack of it. If they are calling for unity, then know subjection to their ideals and lack of values, whether willful or forced is what defines what side is the right side of history you may place yourself.

Leftist double speak (the art of saying one thing and meaning another) has become the language of the left. It was introduced to mainstream politics through the campaign of Barack Obama, one who is arguably believed by many on both sides of the two-party system to be the most articulate orator in modern history. Utilizing practiced tone, demeanor and an artful smirk, Obama mastered the ability to call for unity while dividing America by sex, race, social standing, political partisanship and culture, causing the house divided to fall into chaos and division. When Obama made his debut at the 2004 Democrat convention and uttered these words, “...there is not a liberal America and a conservative America — there is the United States of America. There is not a Black America and a White America and Latino America and Asian America — there’s the United States of America” he wasn’t calling for unity. He was calling for a uniting of America against those who “...cling to their guns and religion.” When he Obama stated, “We are five days away from fundamentally transforming the United States of America” he wasn’t calling for reform to Constitutional ideals as intended by our Founders but an eradication of individualism in favor of a collective oligarchy. “We are the ones we’ve been waiting for” was code for “Calling all Marxists”.

If one has the IQ of seaweed, we see before us now the real meaning of the left’s unity mantra. It’s a subversive twist of what was once the cry of American revolutionaries, “Join or Die.” This call to action during the American Revolution emphasized the need to unite for freedom or die under continued tyranny. It’s flag has once again become a symbol for the need to unite in order to preserve what so many died for to achieve.

Nothing better defines the left’s idea of “unity” then their belief America needs to get in line with Communist dogma or face loss of free speech, societal ostracism and perhaps even genocide.

Calls for censorship on social media, elimination of news stations and media outlets, termination of employment, advertising avenues and forced removal from government positions particularly Congress, are only the most obvious examples of the left’s desire for “unity.”

The weaponization of the Chinese Wuhan virus to shut down Christian worship services, the labeling of any protests contrary to the leftist narrative of social injustice as “racist” and/or voter fraud as “insurrections” are somewhat sublime in their application but also more effective in silencing opposition. Even more sinister are calls from the most radical faction of the left for “liberation” (i.e. reeducation) of southern states who historically vote red. All being done or discussed in the name of “unity.”

The left’s call for unity has been so successful we now watch much of the very leadership of the Republican Party stand united with the left through complicit silence, complacently satisfied with their self-preservation. In some cases we are witnessing outright treachery, collusion with the left absent any regard whatsoever for the desires of those who elected them to protect our individual, freedoms, rights to private property, free speech and gun ownership. Yes, if you want to know what a leftist wants, just listen to their words, apply it in opposite context and you will immediately understand that they are the ones guilty as charged.

“We can treat each other with dignity and respect. We can join forces, stop the shouting, and lower the temperature. For without unity, there is no peace, only bitterness and fury,” stated newly elected President Joe Biden on January 20th. Truer words were never spoken in context to what we face in our Republic today. But perhaps we should add the proper context to its real meaning.

Let's unite in the idea that each of us are individuals, created as such because our Creator saw wisdom in allowing us to make our own choices and deal with the consequences that such liberty mandates. Let us stand together in the belief that there is such a thing as natural law, that there are forces of good and evil in the world and they stand diametrically opposed to each other in intent. Knowing this, we can be united in the belief we don't have to condone views and actions of those with whom we disagree in order to achieve peace. Peace is found in knowing it is not our place to judge others, for it will be God who decides who is right and who is wrong. So there can be unity in the idea of voicing of contrary opinions and views to the point of proselytizing, yet without an unrelenting need to be accepted and adhered to. This is what makes individualism so exciting and human.

Let us unite in the presupposition that America was founded on these principles and values and as such needs to be protected and preserved at all cost. Those who lived and died before us in this belief understood this at its very basic level. We need not redefine what it means to be an American but only rejoice in the fact we are Americans, though not perfect.

Lastly let us unite in the truth that a house divided will fall. This is natural law at its most fundamental. To insist that those different from ourselves need to be reprogrammed to fall in line with some delusional humanistic Utopian society can only result in destruction from within. Human nature will not allow it, thus it is unachievable. For God will not be mocked. Those who seek division under a false façade of unity will be destroyed by it, either through participation or complicity. In other words we must endeavor to unite under the banner of "Join or Die." For unity. For freedom.
